

GIS-P workshop, Sustainability City Conference, Urbis, Manchester, April 2007

John Forrester.

The workshop included a free 'picture display' of the types of outputs community mapping produces twinned with the data that gave rise to those outputs: in other words participants were shown pictures of stakeholder-produced maps alongside the issues they represented. Thus, participants got a feel for the sort of data that can be mapped as well as seeing the outputs of the InSITU project itself.

Participants then took part in a hands-on mapping exercise of their own experience of the environs of the Urbis building in Manchester.
